How is the French ODA budget structured?

Two main envelopes for France's development budget make up the 'ODA mission'

French ODA (€10.4 billion or US$11.6 billion in 2018) stems from two main sources: ODA included in the general budget (€6.3 billion, or US$6.9 billion) and ODA from other sources not included in the general budget (€4.2 billion or US$4.6 billion), see table. The latter mainly includes contributions to the European Commission and multilateral organizations, funding generated through the financial transaction tax (FTT, €798 million in 2018), the airline ticket tax, and debt-relief mechanisms.

The two largest ODA programs of the general budget are included in what is called the 'ODA mission': Program 110 of the Ministry of the Economy and Finance (Finance Ministry) and program 209 of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs' (MAE).

- The Finance Ministry's Program 110 ('economic and financial development aid') includes three main funding envelopes: 1) contributions to international financial institutions (IFI), 2) bilateral assistance (mostly for loans managed by the French Development Agency [AFD]), and 3) transfers to AFD and IFI to reimburse them for funds 'lost' when debt managed by them was cancelled.

- MAE's Program 209 ('solidarity with developing countries') encompasses four main funding envelopes: 1) the bilateral-cooperation envelope, which mainly includes transfers to AFD (for bilateral grants, funding to CSOs, and technical assistance), Debt-Reduction Development Contracts (C2D), the MAE-managed Priority Solidarity Fund (FSP), 2) envelopes for voluntary multilateral contributions to UN agencies and other multilaterals, 3) contributions to the European Development Fund (EDF), and 4) staff costs.

For 2018, allocations to these two lines ('programs') together increased by €95 million compared to 2017, or 4%, to reach €3.8 billion.

Other ODA-relevant programs sourced from the general budget include the Finance Ministry's Program 853, which is used to transfer additional funds to the AFD, allowing it to provide loans with concessional terms for partner countries. AFD thus receives the funds that it uses to issue loans mainly from the Finance Ministry's programs 110 and 853.
